employees more willing to volunteer during working hours.

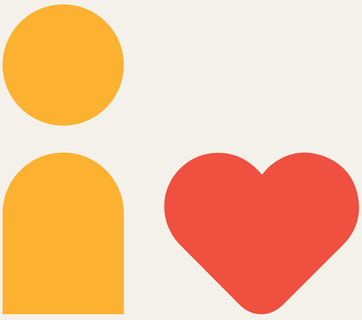

randstad

65%

think it's important to make a contribution to society by doing unpaid voluntary work.

34%

actively do unpaid voluntary work outside of working hours.

73%

would do unpaid voluntary work if their employer gave them paid time off.

The Randstad Workmonitor covers 34 countries in Europe, Asia Pacific and the Americas and is published four times a year. The study is conducted among employees aged 18-65, working a minimum of 24 hours a week in a paid job (not self-employed). The third survey of 2018 was conducted from 18 July until 2 August 2018 with a sample size of 14,600 interviews.

randstad

workmonitor Q3 2018.

download report